AURICOMA BEATEN BY SHE.

THE BELMONT FILLY WINS BY INCHES. OTHER UNEXPECTED RESULTS AT THE GRAVES

END TRACK. the Brooklyn Jockey Club yesterday, and the grand stand, the club-house and the grounds were full of stir and bustle. The sport was lively enough to keep the attention of all present on edge, and it abounded in unexpected and amazing results. The first race did not as build any one, for Biue Wing was made the tayonic in the betting, and although he had not run favorite in the betting, and, although he had not run before this year, his form in the spring of 1887 had been so high that no one thought his victory an upset. He won easily, with Murphy in the saddle, while Belvidere, who was a close second choice, got second lace, only a short distance before Bessie June. arrison, who rode Belvidere, had backed this horse savily to win, and was not altogether pleased at the the details of the contests he must regret that he did not see the victory of Prince Royal and the success of She. Prince Royal was an even money and he was well ridden by Littlefield, who hed with much more than his usual energy and r. Under whip and spur Prince Royal won the by a neck, with Daruna second, and Niagara third. by a nece, with Park of second place. He had persuaded to obtain first or second place. He had persuaded his friends that his pipe-clayed hero an absolute certainty for first or second money, se who were unwise enough to listen to the of the charmer found their pockets emptied the numbers went up. Niagara had Murphy in the saddle, and of course there was no fault to be nd with the riding. Prince Royal and Daruna were ply better than he was at the weights.

en came the earthquake of the day, the trembling concussion of all things reasonable, orderly, stent and logical, which will not soon be for Naturally Mr. Withers's crack filly Auriwas made a tremendous favorite, and at the of the betting it was impossible to obtain even against her anywhere in the ring. In many the element of the diabolical and infernal comes to spoil everything based on what is harmonious, dent and symmetrical. Auricoma's form at nouth Park had been so high and her speed had been so great that she seemed to have a double mortgage (not of the Bedell type) this race. If Mr. Caldwell had given a start up the standard of his usual form, Auricoma's certainty ould not have failed, or if the miserable and abom beast Gipsy Queen, with all the legions of encompassed within her perverse and victous ody had not taken part in the race, Auricoma could have lost. Mr. Caldwell expected trouble with Gipsy Queen, and sent word to her trainer that if he thdraw her he would pay the forfeit-money himself. It was a great pity that the trainer did no pt this handsome and generous offer. Gipsy on did not run first, second, or third. Hence owner had the pleasure of paying $25 for seeing spoil a number of perfect starts, get in the way of good horses and generally make a despicable mess of would otherwise have been a magnificent Gipsy Queen has developed such a temper. ch obstinacy, such wickedness that she ought to ruled off the turf, and not be allowed to start in any take or for any purse. As on previous occasions, bolted and swerved all over the track, interfered with the other horses, did all the mischief that it was possible that any imp of Satan could accomplish.

If she had been out of the race Mr. Caldwell could have dropped the flag to a perfect start with all the ad and head. She delayed them at the post, when the signal was given Mr. Belmont's She well in front, with Sonoma, Tipstaff, Once Again before Auricoma. She had a clear lead of the whole field. Sorrento had been buckjumping freely after his victous tendencies had been ited to their full extent by the antics and sins of the irredeemable Cipsy Queen. He was buck-jumping the flag fell, and was out of the race from the She went off with a tremendous burst of d and was never overtaken, although if Auricoms have won in spite of the advantage that she had when the flag fell. These two fillies drew away from the shole field at the close of the first quarter mile, and the race to the end was confined to the pair. If Taylor had had sufficient sense and discretion to take good position on swinging into the homestretch the avortice must have won. The track was heavy close to the inner rails, but that was no exfor Taylor's trying to climb the outside fence ith the favorite. He went to the very extreme verge of the furthest limit of the course, losing many lengths on the great turn into the run home, but so well did na respond to his imperfect, dilapidated and worm-eaten riding that Auricoma only failed to win by a nose, just a bare few inches. Madstone was a poor third. He had get off badly, next to last, and had run through his field, but had not sufficient speed to te with either She or Auricoma. In the betting ring She opened at 50 to 1 straight and 20 to 1 place. At the close, She was at 10 to 1 straight and 4 to 1 She is a handsome brown filly by ig-Sultana, breeding impossible to sur-anywhere. She has fine action and great speed, and her race was really marvellous one for her first appearance. Report had been busy with her merits all the year, and it was supposed by many that she was the best in the Bel-mont stable. Yet she went to the post at almost hopeless odds. Her owner, Mr. Belmont, her hopeless odds. Her owner, Mr. Belmont, her trainer, James Rowe, and her rider, Frederick Littlefield, all deserve great credit for this victory. She ran straight and strong and true, and stood a desperate drive through the last furiong against the fastest two-year-old filly in the United States. But She ought never to have won, of Mr. Caldwell and partly the fault of George Tay-lor, who rode Auricoma. Good as She is, she had no right in any way to defeat so high-class and swift a filly as Auricoma on her first coming out.

The Dwyer Brothers thought that Bella B. could not defeat Los Angeles and backed the Santa Anita kicked the other day and ran as if extremely stiff and sore. All that Murphy could do with her by his best riding was to obtain third place, Bella B. winning in marvellously easy style, with Santalene second. So, although the Dwyers carried off the Sceptre Stakes, they were losers by the re-sult of the race. The glorious uncertainty of racing was illustrated in this, as also in the fact that Montague, a strong second choice in the betting. backed for the place by all the experts in racing plunged on by his rider, Garrison, thought an absolute certainty for first or second by his owner, Mr. Galway, and his trainer, Polly Feake, ran the most miserable race conceivable, last all the way a beater off like the most ragged and forlorn of tramp.

The mistakes which owners, trainers and jockeys can make in the condition of horses are stupendous Mr. Galway and his trainer and Garrison all thought Montague in perfect condition, and believed that

Mr. Galway and his trainer and Garrison all thought Montague in perfect condition, and believed that he must inevitably run first or second. But the colt never had the slightest trace of speed, and scoured all the way up the homestretch. How could a colt in such a state as this have any chance? How could Mr. Withers's Anomaily have any chance? How could Mr. Withers's Anomaily have any chance in the fifth race, in which she, like Montague, scoured all the way up the homestretch?

The Chicago Stable made the worst of blunders in regard to their filly Huntress, backed by them all through the city poolrooms, in the West and East and everywhere that they could get money on at any sort of odds. They had at least $85,000 on the filly. Yet she ran worse than a Yonkers selling plater, and Mr. Galway's Larchmont, despised by everybody, including his owner and trainer, cantered away with the race, leading all the way, with none of the field ever able to get near him, while Railston beas Huntress for second place. Who can tell anything about racing when such things happen?

The heavy-weight haudleap at a mile was conceded by most turfmen to Prose. But Prose ran like a cross between an Alderney heifer and a lame jackass from Tashkend, and could only get third place, Brait winning easily with Ban Cloche second. This was another blow in the face to the talent. The day opened baily for the bookmakers and the betting ring, as flue Wing and Prince Royal, both strong favorites, were successful. But afterward they had an open-aft pienic of the most delightful and exhilarating sort. The defeats of Auricoma, Los Angeles, Huntress and Prose filled their pockets with thousand-dollar bills. Meanwhile most of the race-goers left the track with earnest tows never to attend another race and never to lose another of her race-goers left the track with earnest tows never to attend another race and never to lose arother dollar on such uncertain and mysterious heasts as the thoroughbreds now in training. But they will turn up bright and smilin regrettable and deplorable start for the two-year-old race. This Mr. Caldwell mourned over as mutch as any loser on the track. He did not sleep well last night and he felt poignant stings or legret, when she any loser to the seen at the post when she got off clear of her field and the public spet, idol and pride, Auricoma, was besten by the seen at the post when she got off clear of her field and the public spet, idol and pride, Auricoma, was besten by the defeat of his with the same that he was the filly had had little work sine her ran in the Funnity Staace. By the way, it is character site of Mr. Withers that he never does expect a horse of his to win. Yet Auricoma, after a bad start, and after bad riding, was beaten by only a few inches. He was glad that, as he did not win himself, his intimate personal friend. Mr. Belmont, was successful. It is a charming trait in Mr. Withers that no matter how great the stake or important the issue, no matter by what blundering, either at the post or on the part of his jockey, his horses are defeated, he is always as tranquil, screne, genial and benignant after veverses as after triumphs. It is an old maxual yet with with a peculiar and wrong-headerstry assure in that the public is an old maxual yet with with a peculiar and wrong-headerstry assure in that the public is not selfable, and the public with the public with the public with respectively willing that phylosophers about that all the powerty to themselves, and leave the header, fat-writed and meaging as their stock of trainers and jockeys. Some trainers of American stables are intelligent, well-mannered and agreeable men. But some of them are vite blackgaards, and some of them could compete in a Civil Service examination for the hickest-skelled, most imbeeled and short-sighted of human beings against even the latest and lowest importations of unferteed slowaks, just thrust through Castie G

Sorrento, Gipsy Queen and She were fractious, causing considerable delay by refusing to join their horses. Sorrento was standing stall in the rear of the field when the flag fell on one of the worst starts of the meeting. She was in her stride an open length in front of Sonoma, who was a neck before Thetail. Auricoma and Madstone were in the ruck. She made the most of her advantages and was never caught. Taylor held her as cheap as old clothes, and rode Auricoma as if he expected her to come back to him, but Littlefield kept her moving, and she struggled home a head before Auricoma, who came with the speed of the wind when Taylor found that She was really dangerous. GUY'S WONDERFUL PERFORMANCE. BEATING MAUD S.'S FLEETWOOD RECORD A SEC-

Hundreds of the prominent turimen of the city ocupled the club house stoop, and the grand stand was All other incidents were dwarfed by the wonderful performance of the Cleveland fiver Guy n his match against time to beat the best record ever made at Fleetwood-2:13:3-4. The chances were against the little black gelding, but he triumphed in the first attempt, and lowered Fleetwood's record to 2:12 1-2. Guy was given a slow mile to warm him up. He seemed in excellent condition and jogged around the circle in 2:27. The track was then brushed off for the trial. The betting was against Guy at odds of about 5 to 3. John Splan drove a runner to sulky to make the pace. The little flyer came down the stretch level and Mr. Archer called "Go" as he flew past the wire. Guy looked like a black streak as he rushed down the hill to the first quarter in 31 1-2 rushed down the fill to the max data was seconds. FIRST DEFEAT OF THE IRISH CRICKETERS. Philadelphia, Sept. 22 (Special).—The third and last day of the first contest with the Irish cricketers today brought out a great crowd to Nicetown. The fine play of the Philadelphias yesterday afternoon in-creased the interest of the game. The Irish Gentlemen to win had to bat out 125 runs. The visitors failed to score as rapidly as in their first inning, and when the ninth wicket fell they had a total of 113 to their credit, and lost the match to the Philadelphias by eight runs, the Philadelphia men scoring 250 to the Irish Gentlemen's 273. The result was loudly cheered. This is the first game the Irish Gentlemen have lost since their arrival in this country. The second game will be called on Monday.

The child says that Nelson, reading about her disappearance in the papers, became frightened and had his wife take her home. She also says that Nelson twice assaulted her in the presence of his wife. This Mrs. Nelson denied, in talking with some of her former neighbors.

Nelson, who is a surly Dane, refused to say anything about the matter when aircsted. His case will come up before Justice Murray, in the Harlem Police Court, at 8 a. m. to-day.

STEINITZ PLAYING CHESS AT WILKESBARRE. Wilkesbarre, Penn., Sept. 22 (Special).—William Steinitz, of New-York, the chess player, visited this city yesterday as the guest of the Wilkesbarre Chess Club. In the evening he gave a public exhibition in the hall of the Young Men's Hebrew Association. He played simultaneously thirty-three games against the leading players of Northeastern Pennsylvania, includling "Fred" Wendel, of Wilkesbarre, Judge J. A. Sittser, of Tunkrannock; G. W. Northrop, of Scranton, and K. M. Smith, of Alden. He won every game out of the thirty-three. Play was begun at 8:30 p. m., and it was 3 o'clock in the morning before Judge Sittser, the last man to hold out against the champion, was defeated. HEART TROUBLE, NOT YELLOW FEVER.

Charles F. Peck, the lawyer, who was taken ill in a Seventh-ave, car on Friday, and removed to Bellevue Hospital, was much better yesterday morning, and was taken away in a cab by his wife. His trouble was simply heart disease, but a report was spread that he had symptoms of yellow fever. This report was probably due in part to the fact that he had been probably due in part to the fact that he had been removed to the hospital against his will. The surgeon in charge of the ambulance said yesterday that Mr. Peck was not entirely conscious when he first saw him, and he therefore considered it his duty not to heed the sick man's orders to be left alone. There were, however, no symptoms of yellow fever. Mr. Peck lives in Englewood, N. J., and had not been in any way exposed to the fever.
